Sadhguru spoke about how the human system can benefit by staying awake on this night: “The idea of Mahashivaratri is that on this day, the planetary positions, particularly in the northern hemisphere are such that there is a natural upsurge of energy in the human mechanism. This is not about worship, this is not about a particular belief system. This is about enhancing the human beings that we are. It is my wish and my blessing that this night should not be just of wakefulness but also of awakening.”

An eclectic mix of artists that included a Lebanese band, Parthiv Gohil and his troupe, singer Karthik, Kabir Cafe and Sounds of Isha as well as several classical dancers including students of Isha Samskriti and folk artists performed through the night. The performances were interspersed with discourses by Sadhguru as well as meditation sessions. rudraksh prasadam. The Sarpa Sutra is a consecrated copper snake ring worn on the left ring finger to promote stability and well-being.

About Mahashivaratri
Mahashivaratri is significant because of the immense spiritual benefits it offers due to natural planetary positions. On this night, the northern hemisphere of the planet is positioned such that there is a natural upsurge of energy in the human system, pushing one towards their spiritual peak. It is therefore considered important to stay awake with the spine erect to benefit from this natural upsurge of energy. The forces of the night are agnostic to faith or religion making Mahashivaratri a universally significant night for all human beings, especially those on the spiritual path.
