To Bolster #FreeTNTemples Movement, Isha Foundation Launches Kari - The Lost Shrines Mobile Game

6 April 2021, Coimbatore: Sadhguru's Isha Foundation has launched Kari and The Lost Shrines - a mobile game voicing the anguish of a devotee on his journey to revive temples to their full glory.

Set in the deep forests of India, Kari - the lead character - attempts to restore the lost temples of the land by completing various challenges. Through the interactive game, users can help Kari get closer to his goals and restore the shrines.

Named after the 47th Nayanar saint, Kari is the embodiment of a warrior-protector. He sprints through serpentine green walks across deep unfamiliar forests and cascades through verdant veils to uncover long lost relics from ancient shrines. Relic-by-recovered-relic, he puts the shrines back together in a marvellous feat of restoration.

The game, designed for both Android and iOS platforms, has been launched amid the extensive #FreeTNTemples campaign led by Sadhguru to free temples in Tamil Nadu from government control.

So far, more than 3 crore people have supported the #FreeTNTemples campaign both online and on-ground.

Over a month, citizens have flooded Twitter with videos of temples in various states of ruin all over the state. Many are centuries old, some millennia old. With overgrown weeds, crumbling walls and roofs, broken idols and sculptures and garbage strewn around them, the Temples tell a heartrending tale of apathy and neglect.
